

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1744.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Flanders.

Turin, September 19.

THE French and Spaniards open'd the Trenches before Coni in the Night between the 12th and 13th, but the Town is not yet invested; on the contrary, part of the Garison is actually encamped without the Gate of Turin. They have cannonaded and bombarded the Place for some Days with great Force, but with very little Effect; insomuch that it may be safely said, that they suffer more in the Camp from the Cannon of the Town, than in the Town from the Batteries of the Camp. His Majesty has thought fit to send the Baron de Leutrum to command there; the former Governor, and some other Officers, being remov'd on Account of the Affair at Demont. The Place has been admirably well defended. On the 13th 3000 of the Towns-men sallied, supported by all the Grenadiers of the Garison. They attack'd the Spanish Troops about Two in the Afternoon, and by Six were Masters of a Battery, from whence they carried three Pieces of Cannon, and would, doubtless, have carried off the rest, if they had not been attack'd by a Body of Horse from the Camp. In this Action, the Besiegers lost 400 Men kill'd upon the Spot; and as many wounded as fill'd 42 Waggon. On the 14th and 16th the Garison made two other Sallies, with as great Vigour, and with equal Success; insomuch, that in the whole the Enemy lost 1600 Men, and nine Pieces of Cannon. Our Peasants distress them excessively, and carry off such Numbers of their Horses, that, at present, a good Spanish Horse, of five Years old, will not fetch above six or seven Sequins at most. The Marquis de Monte Santo is so enrag'd at the Losses they have sustain'd from our Peasants, that there is no Sort of Barbarity which he does not suffer his Troops to commit. We have this Moment receiv'd Advice, that Part of the King's Troops begin to defie towards Coni; and as the Militia have likewise Orders to march that Way, it is generally believed, we shall speedily receive an Account of some Action of Importance.

From the Camp before Fribourg, Sept. 26. We have not only actually begun the Siege of this Place, but are, at this Instant, employ'd in turning the Course of the River; which will then serve for a Parallel, in which we may establish our Batteries. The Enemy fire upon us with all the Vigour imaginable, and no less than seven Men, of the Regiment of Gondrin, were kill'd by a single Ball. They Yesterday began to throw Bombs into the Trenches, by which we have many kill'd, and more wounded; we are, however, in hopes, that the Siege will not continue above three Weeks, and that then the Garison will be oblig'd to retire into the Citadel and Forts; the Blockade of which, may possibly last the best Part of the Winter.

Ingoldstadt, September 24. A Battalion of Foot, and two Companies of Grenadiers march'd hither, lately, from Munich, in order to reinforce our Garison, which is now so numerous, and well provided, that we make no manner of Doubt we shall be able to stop Count Seckendorff and his Army, for six Months at least; and, possibly, prevent his penetrating into Bavaria this Winter.

Paris, October 2. The King arriv'd at Lunwill on the 29th of last Month, from whence his Majesty set out Yesterday for Strasbourg; he proposes to go from thence to Severn, and will afterwards return to Strasbourg. The Queen does not accompany the King in this Journey, but will return directly hither, so that she is expected on the 10th; the Dauphin arriv'd at Versailles on the 27th, and the Princess's of France on the 29th. The Duke de Gêvres, our Governor, wrote a Letter from Metz, to the Provost of the Merchants, to inform him, that his Majesty intends to come hither, from Alsace, and that he will spend some Days at the Louvre; and, for this Reason, the Officers of the great Wardrobe are employ'd in furnishing several Apartments for his Majesty's Reception. It is now no longer a Secret, that there is to be a general Re-coinage of the Gold and Silver Species, and an Edict will issue for that Purpose, about Christmas. The Army under the Count de Saxe, will, undoubtedly, keep the Field, to the Beginning of November, if not later; and it is said, positively, that he has Orders to conclude the Campaign with a Siege of Importance.

Brussels, October 6. The Army of the Allies arriv'd on the 4th Instant, near Grave. The French did not incommode them at all in their March. Sunday last being the Feast of St. Francis, which is the Name-Day of his Royal Highness the Duke, Co-regent, it was celebrated with all possible Marks of Rejoicing; the Town House was illuminated in the Evening, and then, as well as at Noon, there was a tripple Discharge of the Artillery on our Ramparts. According to our last Advices from the Hague, the States-General have fix'd a Day for returning an Answer to the Letters of the Queen, our Sovereign, and his Britannick Majesty.
